How many can you make?

How many of the bugs can you make from playdough? You could then write a label for each of them and send us a photo.

This is really good for your fine motor skills.

Wildlife Patterns

Can you find lots of natural objects. Leaves, petals, stones, pebbles and twigs and make a lovely pattern.

Send your picture to me so we can print and put in the classroom.

Week Commencing

Make Friends With a Bug.

Where to Look?

Great spots for searching include under stones and wood, the branches, bark and leaves of trees and in long grass. You'll often find things hiding out in all of these locations.

Be Gentle

Once you've found your bugs, remember that you're a giant compared to them, so be gentle with any that you choose to pick up as they'll probably be scared of you. It's best if you choose something to hold that's relatively small and that's not going to sting or bite you - so no wasps, bees or snakes.

Let Them Go

All bugs appreciate being returned to their homes after you've looked at them - just like you'll want to go home at the end of your bug-friending adventure.

Tell Me More.

Pick your favourite insect and write a fact file about it.

- Where do they live?
- What they like to eat?
- How many legs does it have?
- What its their important job?
- What do they look like?
